A Ghost Show. A few days ago the papers contained an article in reference to the strange conduct of some unknown man who has frequently been observed during the last two years to run across Clinton street, perfectly naked, and disappear behind the Betts-street Hospital. Officers and citizens have often made a most vigilant search for the party, but the matter is still a mystery and has created considerable excitement in the neighborhood.

Last night there was such a crowd about the place that the sidewalk and street were almost entirely blocked, and the officers were obliged to interfere. Little attention, however, was paid to the police, and it was not until twenty-three of the most obstreperous had been locked up on the charge of obstructing the sidewalk, that the crowd was in any degree lessened.

While the excitement was at its highest Chris. Harling, a baker living on Linn street near Betts, for the sake of a joke, dressed himself in white and appeared in the alley. The crowd started toward him, and he started to escape, but was soon caught by the officers and taken to the Station-house. Harling was fined $10 and costs this morning, and the sidewalk obstructions were also given the same sentence, but in their cases the $10 fine was suspended and they were made to pay only the costs.

HAMILTON DISTRICT. James L. Ruffin against the County Auditor and Commissioners. This case came up on an application for a mandamus to compel W. S. Cappeller, County Auditor, to draw his warrant on the County Treasurer for $740 in favor of James L. Ruffin.

The applicant claims that he is entitled to this amount as fees, which were paid to the County Commissioners some twenty-three years ago, when he was Marshal of the City of Cincinnati. The Auditor denies the right of the applicant to the money, and relies also on the statute of limitations.

On behalf of the applicant it is contended that the Commissioners occupied the position of Trustees for Ruffin, and that the statute of limitations therefore does not apply.
